BICENTENNIAL OF THE GREEK REVOLUTION (1821-2021)

*The Greek Revolution in the Age of Revolutions (1776-1848)
Reappraisals and Comparisons*

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

12-13 MARCH 2021

The background of the page is a faded, historical illustration. It depicts a group of men, likely revolutionaries or political figures, standing in front of a large, draped structure that resembles a tent or a stage. The men are dressed in 19th-century attire, including coats, waistcoats, and hats. Some are looking towards the viewer, while others are engaged in conversation. The overall tone is sepia and historical, suggesting a scene from the Greek Revolution or a similar event.

The Bicentennial of the Greek Revolution (1821-2021) offers the occasion to revisit and rethink many of the issues raised and fought over in the critical period of political and social upheaval and ideological change that has been canonized in historiography as the “Age of Revolution”, extending from 1776 to 1848. The Greek Revolution in 1821 was a pivotal event in the period of repression that followed the defeat of the French Revolution in 1815. It signaled the earliest expression of the hope of freedom that was to initiate a process of revival and transmission of liberal ideals on a global scale. Reappraising the Greek revolutionary experience and comparing it with other revolutionary movements across Europe at the time can provide insights into the revolutionary phenomenon and the character of the “Age of Revolutions” that might prove useful and suggestive in understanding parallel forms of collective mobilization and change world-wide.

"When a nation desires independence, a revolution is probable; but when it is spurred into action by an appetite for revenge as well as by a passion for liberty; [...] a revolution becomes inevitable"

George Finlay
